1. Check the text matches - still a little off when you compare to the original

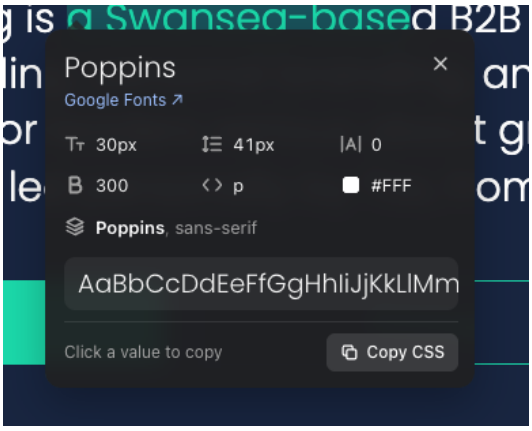

Can you just double-check the font is the same as the original, using What Font. This is the main thing that ideally needs to be double-checked across the whole site, as it's not identical across every section on the whole of the website - but if it's taking too long, prioritise…

- section 1 on each page (most important)
- the quotes
- The contact details (top right corner)
- The blue banners
- The footer

EXAMPLE: Original…

Example: Ours…

You can see the difference in this example:

- 30px
- 41px
- 0
- 300
- P
- FFF

- 28px
- 42px
- -0.56px
- 300
- span
- FFF

Not the same!

2. Check the highlighter

The green and white highlighter needs to be closer to the original

3. Check the menu

As discussed last time, needs to be similar to the original

4. Footer

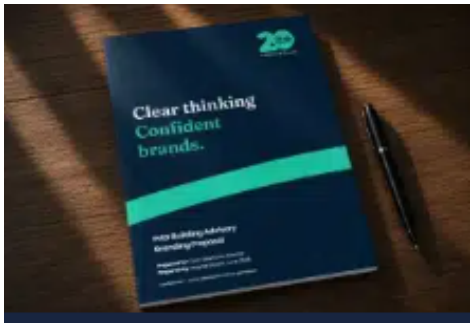

Linkedin = https://www.linkedin.com/in/tazburwaiss
X = https://x.com/LinkedIn_Grow

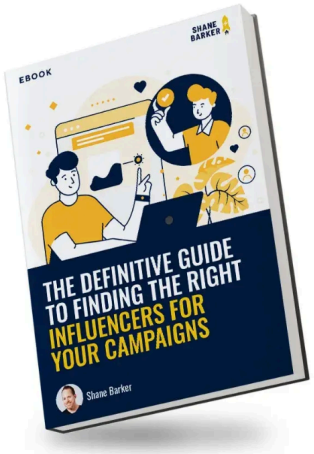

1. Home page

- Who we have worked with = remove Persimmon
- Add this above Who we have worked with (you can see how they did it here - https://www.meetbob.co.uk/brand-identity-pack/)

- Growing a business is hard. Rocket makes it easier = change image to make it more obvious it's an E-book (a little similar to how you did the image for the last site - but also keep this design in mind too) - The Ultimate LinkedIn B2B Growth Kit.

- Get clear. Get confident. Grow faster = put ‘Grow faster’ on the bottom line

2. About

- Just remove the About section completely, not really needed

3. Web and Brand Positioning

- Tighten up the spacing gap between sections - similar to how it is on the home page

4. Personal Branding

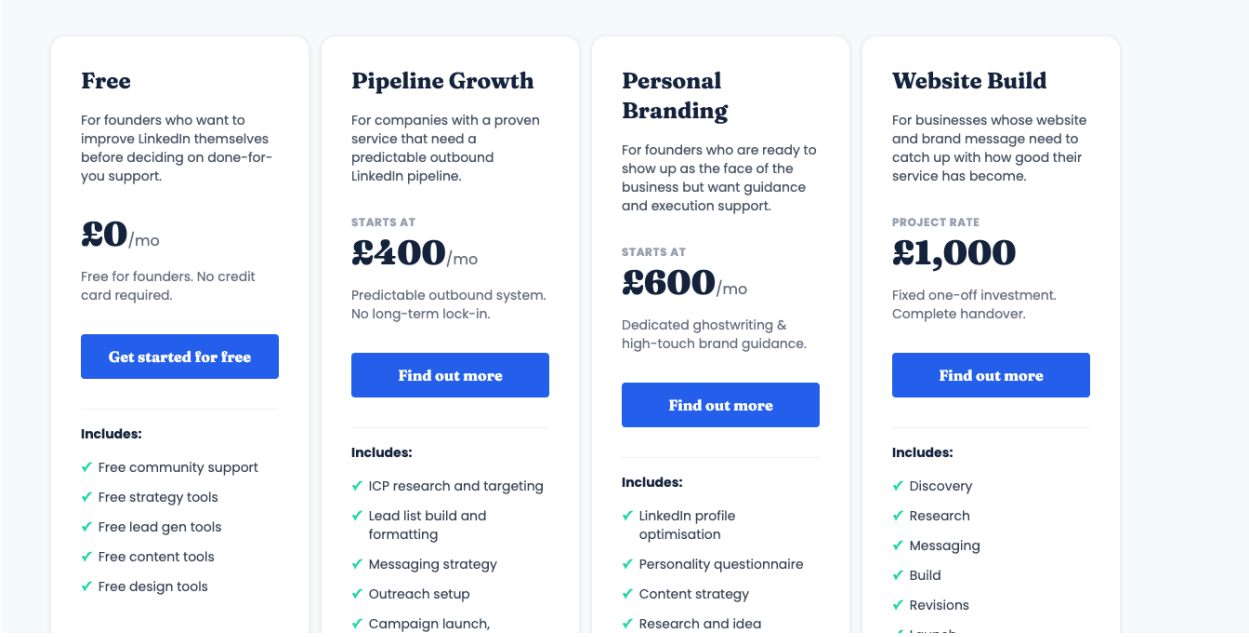

- Same as above

5. Social Selling

- Same as above
- Change the title to = Turn conversations into pipeline.

6. Pricing

- This section is still not in alignment, everything needs to be straight in line, also Pipelien Growth is called Social Selling
- Try changing the white background colour to light blue colour

7. Case Studies

- Tighten up the spacing gap between sections - similar to how it is on the home page
- Get rid of Tomkinson Carpets, only 5 case studies
- Try these images - https://drive.google.com/drive/u/3/folders/1yg6rNrCyehSK5whJlFRtHEm0YWiRBf-2

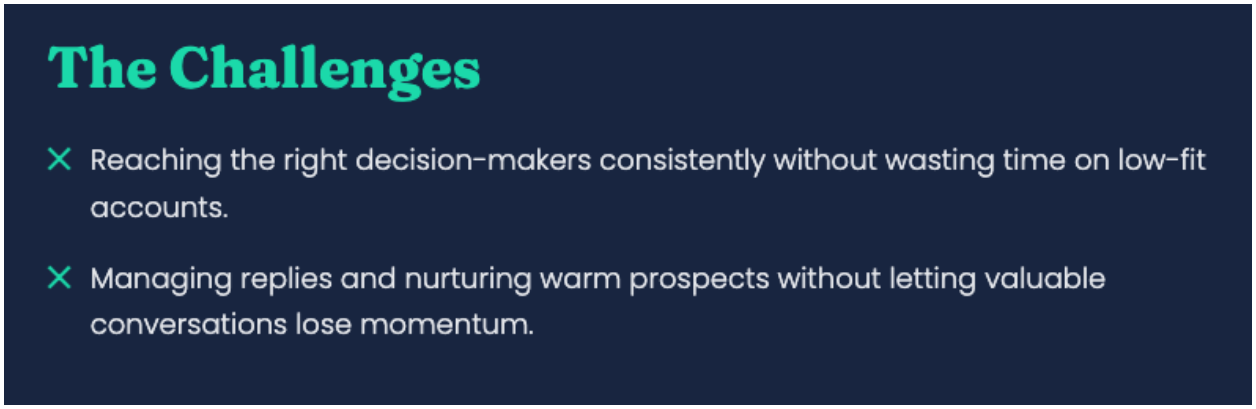

8. Case study 1

- For section 1… Can you just double-check the font is the same as the original, using What Font. H1 title should be green.
- Remove this:

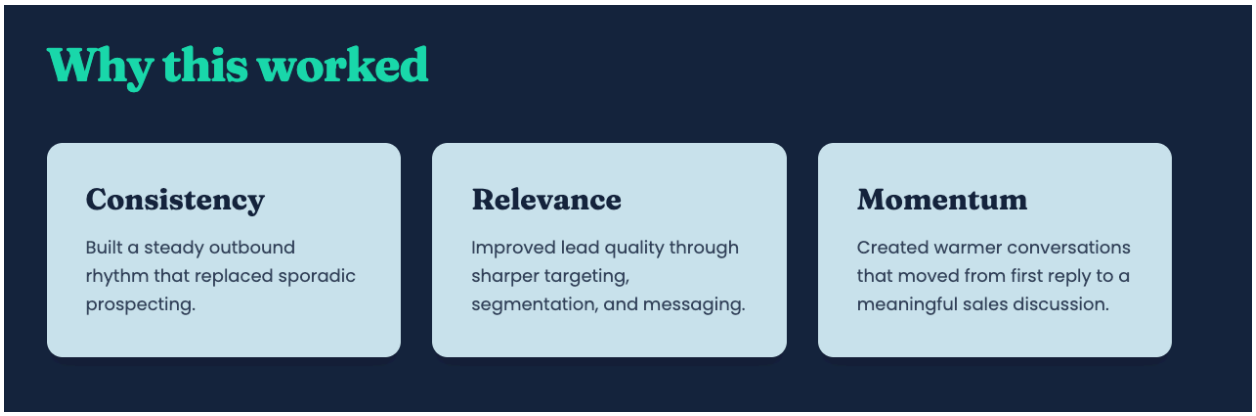

- Can you make the numbers section below that, the same as the numbers section on the home page
- Why this worked = should be the same font size as the other h2 titles above it

- Can you change the x to ‘ticks’, similar to the home page

- Can we add icons to these

9. Lead gen

- Can you tighten up the spacing a little bit between sections
- Replace e.g. Taz Burwaiss to e.g. Bob Smith
- The ticks need to be similar style as to how they are on the home page
- What's inside - needs to be formatted more like this…

10. How much

- https://www.meetbob.co.uk/how-much-does-branding-cost-uk/

Below I will screenshot what to keep - keep the same copy for now, i will need to do a full review of the copy of the website once the design structure has been sorted.

(of course you can remove the date/ time / and author though - put a dummy image in there for now)

What's Typically Included in a Branding Package?

The deliverables vary by package, but a well-structured brand project should typically include: Brand strategy (positioning statement, audience definition, messaging framework, tone of voice). Visual identity (logo and variations, colour palette, typography, photography style). Brand guidelines document covering usage rules and application examples. Brand assets including stationery, email signature, social media templates, and presentation templates. Always clarify the scope in writing before work begins.

How to Budget for a Branding Project

The 10–15% rule

For businesses undertaking a full rebrand, allocating 10–15% of your projected annual revenue is a useful starting point. For a business turning over £200,000 a year, that suggests a branding budget of £20,000–£30,000 – enough to do the job properly with a mid-tier specialist agency.

Prioritise strategy before design

The most expensive branding mistake is investing in design before you're clear on strategy. If your positioning is wrong, the best logo in the world won't fix it. If budget is tight, consider a strategy workshop first, then phase the design work when you're ready.

Factor in rollout costs

Once the identity is created, you'll need to update your website, printed materials, signage, email templates, and social profiles. Build this into your overall budget – the design is often only 40–60% of the total investment.

Is Branding Worth the Investment?

A well-executed brand identity is one of the highest-ROI investments a growing business can make. It allows you to charge more – businesses with strong brands are perceived as more professional and trustworthy, which directly supports higher pricing. It attracts better clients by acting as a filter for the right fit. It reduces marketing friction by ensuring every piece of content reinforces the same message. At Bob Design, we've seen clients increase their average project value by 40% following a rebrand.

Frequently Asked Questions

How much does branding cost for a small business in the UK?

For a small business in the UK, budget at least £1,500–£5,000 for a professional brand starter pack. A full brand identity with strategy typically starts from £5,000–£10,000 with a specialist agency. Freelancer rates are available from around £500–£2,000, but the level of strategic thinking and creative quality will vary significantly.
